Fig. S9

The histogram shows the relative frequency (%) of accuracy scores for two groups: shFoxP2 and shControl. The x-axis represents the accuracy score, while the y-axis represents the relative frequency. The data suggests a distribution pattern that is slightly skewed to the right for both groups, with the shFoxP2 group having a higher frequency of scores around 50, and the shControl group having a broader spread of scores.