PLOS Biology staff editors invite you to consult on submitted manuscripts via email. To accept or decline the assignment click “View Invitation”.
As a member of the PLOS Biology Editorial Board, you may already have a PLOS account.

If so, click “Sign in with PLOS” and enter your credentials on the next page.

If you have forgotten your password, click “Forgot your password” on the sign-in page to have reset instructions emailed to you.
If you are new to PLOS, you will need to set up your PLOS account before you can sign in to Aperta. On the Aperta sign-in page, click “Create an account.”
On the next page, fill out the form and click “Create Account.”

Important: Be sure to create your Aperta account using the same email address where your manuscript invitation was sent. If you register with a different email address, you may be unable to view your invitations.
After you have completed the form, you will receive a confirmation email from plos.org with a link to verify your account.

Important: You must click the verification link in the confirmation email to complete your account registration. You will then be redirected to the sign-in page where you can now click “Sign in with PLOS” and enter your new credentials.
After you sign in to Aperta, you will see your Academic Editor invitation at the top of the screen.
Click “View Invitations” button to review the abstract. Use the buttons to accept or decline the invitation.
Once you have accepted the invitation, a link to the manuscript will appear in your manuscripts list under "Active Manuscripts". Click on the article’s title to see the manuscript and additional files.
On the manuscript page you can read the full manuscript on the left side of the screen.

Submission cards and other important information about the manuscript are on the right.
Click the Downloads link to access Word and PDF versions.

Microsoft Word submissions are downloadable in PDF with figures embedded. PDF submissions will download as submitted with any separate figure or supporting information files appended at the end.
You will use the Discussion link at the top of the manuscript page to discuss the manuscript with a PLOS Biology editor. If you do not have a PLOS account and you have been invited to act as Academic Editor, you will receive an email notification inviting you to the discussion forum after you have created your PLOS account.
In the forum, provide your professional assessment and discuss the manuscript with the staff editor.

To notify the editor when you post to the discussion, make sure to include the editor’s username by typing @name in the comment box.

This discussion will not be visible to authors.
Aperta is in active development, so please send us feedback on your experience at any point using Aperta’s feedback link. You can also email your suggestions and input to apertasupport@plos.org.

If you have more questions, check the complete editor guide.