

Figure S4: All results for artificial data set (position distribution = gauss; given length = false). For each data set, we show the nucleotide precision recall curve, the sequence logo obtained from each of the tools, and the position distribution learned by Disperm. Finally, we show a simplified overview of these results.

