Figure S2
The probes were concentrated along a line, evidence that this represents a microarray artifact and that caution is warranted when performing differential expression measurements using microarrays.