

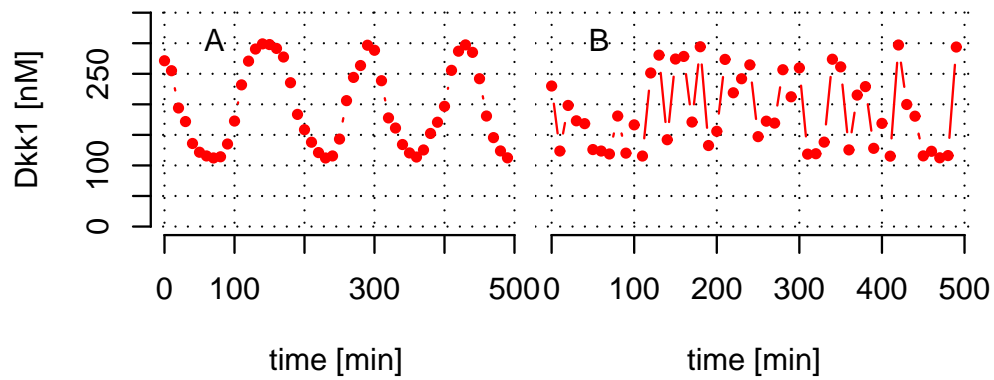

Figure S3 - Desynchronization of neighboring cells

If the desynchronization between neighboring cells is small (A) then the oscillations of the Dkk1 level at the determination front is almost unaltered. However, if the desynchronization is strong then these oscillations are not appearing.