

Figure S1: ProPCA is efficient at computing large numbers of PCs. Comparison of methods when calculating differing numbers of principal components. We computed principal components ranging from 1-40 on a dataset containing 20 populations separated at $F_{st} = 0.01$, 10,000 individuals, and 50,000 SNPs. All methods were run with default settings.