Appendix 1. Lists of clinical specialties trained through 2-year clerkships [31].
The clinical specialties covered in the first-year clerkship were internal medicine (cardiology, chest medicine, hematology and oncology, infectious diseases, nephrology, gastroenterology, general medicine, and metabolism and endocrinology/rheumatology), psychiatry, neurology, surgery (general surgery, chest surgery, cardiovascular surgery, colon and rectal surgery, pediatric surgery, and trauma), obstetrics and gynecology, pediatrics, and radiology; those covered in the second-year clerkship were anesthesiology, orthopedics, neurosurgery, plastic surgery, urology, dermatology, rehabilitation medicine, ophthalmology, otolaryngology, family medicine, emergency medicine, and nuclear medicine/pathology/laboratory medicine/radiation oncology.