S2 Fig. Frequency of activity points as a function of distance to Forest edge. The graph shows the distribution of activity points versus the distance to forest edges, estimated via kernel density estimation. The grey line shows the probability density distribution of the collected points in the study area.