

S5 Fig: Possible mechanism of generation of 2xIGR recombinants. A cartoon depicting a possible mechanism for the generation of genome segments with two intergenic regions and partial coding sequences. During replication of the genome segment (1), the replication complex could disassociate from the original template (2), reassociate with another template in the cell (3), and replication could complete on the second template (4).